Whether you approach from the A63 or from Hessle Road, you need to turn onto Priory Way, then onto Henry Boot Way (the main route through Priory Park industrial estate), following the road past the Village Hotel, until you reach Saltmarsh Court, a turning on your right just after the large Arco warehouse. At a T junction, turn left and follow the eastern leg of Saltmarsh Court to reach the Northern Films and Intertech Media building at 8 Saltmarsh Court. James Cameron (Heritage Project Manager) said

"The opportunity to host a Medieval Fair this year is something that really excites us. The Minster's history is Hull's history, so we are very keen to translate that in an engaging, family-friendly and immersive way this summertime. With it being our 600th anniversary this year, there is no better occasion to reflect on our past and to celebrate it. We hope people can take something away from it but, more than anything, enjoy themselves in a bit of historical escapism for a day."

We also invite visitors to tour the historic and striking Trinity House as part of the day: tours are free and can be booked online:

- Waterhouse Lane – Castle Chambers is visible again after being covered with scaffolding and sheets. It looks very attractive after being cleaned and re-roofed. Next door, the Earl de Grey is structurally complete after being dismantled and rebuilt on its new site on Waterhouse Lane. It is covered by sheeting, but the green glazed tiles can just be seen through a gap (observed 4.6.25).

(Sadly, my camera battery gave out just as I tried to take a photograph of today's scene!)

Wyke upon Hull was established for wool export by the monks and this little port was bought from the abbey by King Edward 1 in 1293. He re-named it the King's Town upon Hull.
